Worker Demands Dwindle For Area As Harvest Slows

The demand for labor in south central Idaho has declined by 360 to a total of 741 job openings for early November, according to the most recent Idaho employment summary report received here from the Idaho state employment service.

Greatest single need for labor has been from sugar beet growers, although the harvest was interrupted by last week's snow storms.

The report shows that the only permanent openings now available in Twin Falls are for skilled workers, such as carpenters, plumbers, electricians and mechanics. Most of the current large number of applicants cannot meet the skill requirements.

In the Jerome area, a surplus of workers exists, except in the skilled field. The Barlow ranches at Hazelton has started a night shift, adding 23 women to the payroll.

The Gooding 1923 office has reported that a few workers are still needed for the International Seed Pellet company's desert reseed project. Also needed are 30 turkey pickers at Wendell.

Submission or Fight Is Open As U. S. Road

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary Marshall and the Harriman committee report have made it clear that the European recovery program is no mere defensive measure, but rather a counter-offensive against the bolshevik effort to create a chaotic economic situation in which despairing peoples would welcome totalitarianism.

The Harriman report openly recognizes that there is a war between Russia and the forces of western democracy which could prove as disastrous as a war of actual military conquest.

Marshall brings out one point that has been too little stressed. It is that the program will have its effect on world conditions as a whole in almost equal proportion to its effect on Europe, because of the interdependence of various regional economies.

The Harriman report, aside from providing a summary of what the United States can and must do, serves an important purpose in advising the American people that the battle being waged by Russia is a ruthless and determined drive to achieve world domination.

America, in the last 30 years, has learned something about the conduct of shooting war, but is still rather immature in economic and ideological warfare. Her people are slow to believe that some man or some group is deliberately trying to take over the world. We are at first inclined, just as with Hitler, to seek excuses for our adversaries, to look for "basic causes" which may be a part of international maladjustment, and to wonder if the aggressor may not be driven by pressures which can be alleviated. This leads us, just as it did England and France in the late 1910s to appeasement.

Then, belatedly, we awake to the realization that the pure desire for conquest still exists in the 20th century just as it has in all other centuries; that we must either submit to it or fight it.

172 Residents of County at Moscow

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Nov. 11—Twin Falls county, with 172 students, is among the eight Idaho counties having more than 100 students registered at the University of Idaho.

All 44 of the state's counties have students registered at the school. More than 3,000 Idahoans are included in the 3,322 students who make up the university's all-time high enrollment.

For the past two school years, because of the heavy enrollment from within the state, the university has limited new students to Idaho residents. By recent action of the board of regents, however, the out-of-state bar was lifted to permit a limited number of new students from other areas to attend the university.

Bids Received on Acreage for Area

DOISE, Nov. 11 (AP)—A request of L. Q. Peterson, McGill, Nov. 10, to lease state land near Payette lakes for establishment of a dude ranch was turned down by the state land board yesterday.

Edward Wosler, land commissioner, said the request was rejected because the land was too near the lake for health considerations.

Thirteen applications for land sales, totaling 2,260 acres, were approved. Of the land, 640 acres were in Raft river valley of Cassia county, where extensive pumping operations for irrigation purposes planned.

Total for other counties are Twin Falls, 480; Power county, 40; Butte county, 350; Fremont county, 120; and Gooding county, 420.

Pay Agreeable But Strikers Want Contract

"We are trying to organize Twin Falls as Twin Falls should be organized," R. J. Reese, international representative for the Meat Cutters union (AFL), said Monday night in explaining the picketing of three retail meat markets and one packing company in Twin Falls.

Reese said local 110 in Twin Falls seeks a "signed agreement with these employers to cover hours, wages and conditions." However, the union already has a 48-hour week and there are no changes in the conditions requested by the union in two years ago and which the local markets have met, he added.

Two men being picketed are the Five Points store, 100 Addition avenue; two O. P. Skaggs stores at 347 Main avenue east and 228 Shoshone street east, and the Custom Packing company, west of the city.

Wage minimum sought by the union, according to Reese, are 40¢ per hour for meat markets and 50¢ weekly for journeyman meat cutters in the retail stores and 50¢ weekly for head cutters.

Reese said the local markets are paying union scale or above, said Reese, but "we want a signed agreement with the employers where the markets are concerned."

In some cases he said the wage minimum would amount to a raise of about 4¢.

Arion L. Baslian, co-owner of the Five Points store, pointed out: "We pay union scale wages and try to keep within the laws of the union. I employ only one union member full time and one part time and if I signed this contract my whole staff would have to join. I refused to sign the new contract as did 80 per cent of the other stores in town, yet we're being picketed."

Baslian has been doing his own meat cutting for years and the strike has not curtailed his sale of meat. At Skaggs, meat was being delivered by the store managers.

Reese denied that the entire staff at the Five Points store or any of the other markets would have to join the union and said that it would only affect the meat cutters in the establishment.

Owner of both O. P. Skaggs stores and co-owner of one of the two meat markets in the stores, E. J. Skaggs, said Monday night that he was unwilling to sign the agreement as was his son, Edon Skaggs, who is half owner of one of the markets.

Custom Packing company, although owned by his sons, Edon and Wayne Skaggs, is an entirely different business and has only a business connection with the O. P. Skaggs stores, Skaggs added.

The brothers have indicated a willingness to sign a contract with the union at the packing company, their father said, but the union will not negotiate unless the contract includes the retail markets.

Reese confirmed this statement. Meanwhile, neither the union nor the employers had given an inch although Baslian reported that he had "thought a beer" the six pickets outside his store and that "the fellows aren't doing any harm."

Baslian said he favored all the employees and all the employees meeting and agreeing on wages. "It would help if we all got together and talked it over man to man," he said.

Young GOPs Urging Party To Grab Ball

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—A freshman Republican congressman believes that if GOP leaders really want to capture the White House in 1948, they should "grab the ball" from the administration and write their own legislative program.

He was Rep. Donald L. Jackson, R. Calif. He said he and most of his 73 freshman colleagues would support such a program. The average voter, he said, is looking anxiously for firm leadership in the present world crisis.

In any case, young Republicans in congress will take a "far more active role" in shaping important legislation during the forthcoming session than they did last year, he said.

Jackson, just returned from a tour of European hunger areas, said that show all the young Republicans must help develop a "realistic and business-like program of foreign aid geared to American self-interest."

At the same time, he said most young Republicans want an "aggressive" federal legislative program, including a sound housing program, an increase in the minimum wage and a broadened social security program.

He said that while he did not pre-

Skeleton Identity Clinched by Ring

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11 (AP)—A little silver ring found a few feet from a child's skeleton was identified last night by the parents of Rochelle Quaker, 6, as that of their daughter who was kidnapped Feb. 15, 1946.

"That's the ring," said Mrs. William Quaker, when it was shown to her at her home by sheriff Detective Sgt. M. W. Kelly. Her husband, Abe, detective store operator, nodded agreement. Yesterday the parents identified latently fingerprints of two-year-old girl as remains of garments Rochelle wore the day she disappeared.

Mr. Quaker said the ring, gold with a heart on which the initials "R" was engraved, was made for Rochelle and given to her by her grandmother.

Candidates totaling 14 couples flanked the altar, which was decorated with lavender and white roses. The bride wore a white gown with a full-length train and additional lace bordered the high collar. Orange blossoms held her veil in place. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white bow tie. The ceremony was held at 2 p. m. in the church. The bride's bouquet was composed of five baby orchids surrounded by a ring of large lavender orchids tied with white satin streamers. Upon her head she wore a beaded fabric that has been in her family for over 100 years, a gift to the bride from her namesake aunt, Mrs. Ina Barker, Portland. Her necklace, made of Black Hill gold, was a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor, Evelyn Van Ausdell, was dressed in a pink chiffon formal trimmed with pink lace. She carried a crescent-shaped spray of white shatter carnations and a necklace, a gift from the bride. The bride's other attendants were Marie Alice and Ruby West, who had also been presented necklaces as gifts. Miss Alice was given in blue net formal and carried a bouquet of cream-colored pompanos. Braising Method Is Popular With Many Meat Cuts

This is a time as President Truman and his Food Conservation Committee have indicated—to take thought for careful cooking of the meat we serve. Roasting, broiling, broiling, there is a conserving way to do each of these, but perhaps the most important method to know to make the most of the thrifty cuts of meats in the market now is "braising."

Braising, though it may be an unfamiliar cooking term, is actually a familiar cooking procedure for it's the time-honored way to cook pot roast. Braising hasn't been applied to nearly as many meats as it could be for tenderness, juiciness and richness of flavor. With braising, the meat takes on the rich brownness ordinarily associated with roasting and yet less tender cuts can be cooked this way.

Here's How to Braise
To braise meat, choose a heavy skillet or deep casserole with a tight-fitting lid. Brown the meat, either whole or in pieces, depending upon the cut, in little lard or meat drippings. Brown it thoroughly until it develops a rich dark brown crust. Then add liquid, add just the tiniest bit of liquid, only enough to barely cover the bottom of the pan and to keep the meat from scorching. Put on the lid tightly, and leave the meat to slowly simmer in its own juices. The tender substance, under this leisurely, thorough cooking. This is the way to make the most of the meat on the market now.

Liquid Used Varies
Added liquid for braising can be anything from plain water to tomato juice, sour cream, water, saved from cooking vegetables, or soup stock. Each adds a different flavor accent to the finished dish. Vegetables, too, can be cooked with meat that's braised, but use a fine sieve of recipes that follow—each in accordance with our renewed efforts to make the most of the thrifty cuts of meat.

Beef and Vegetable Pie
1½ pounds chuck beef
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups lard and meat drippings
2 medium onions, sliced
1 cup water
2 teaspoons salt

Add vegetables and simmer 15 minutes. Pour meat and vegetables in 2 quart casserole. Measure stock, if not enough, add water to make 2 cups of liquid. Make a paste of 3 tablespoons flour and 4 tablespoons of water; add to stock and cook stirring constantly until thickened. Pour over meat in casserole, cover and bake in a hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. YIELD: 6 servings.

Savory Braised Lamb
2 lbs. lamb breast, shank or ribs
1 cup diced green pepper
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups beef or meat drippings
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic
Have meat cut in 1 inch cubes. Brown meat, onion and green pepper in lard in heavy skillet. Add remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and cook 40 minutes, or until tender. Remove clove of garlic. YIELD: 6 servings.

WINNING PLAYS OF 1947, No. 2: Higgins' Dream Pass Play Produced Touchdown First Time Tried

Bob Higgins' Dream Pass

By BOB HIGGINS
Penn State Coach

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Penn State scored against Pottsville at the Pottsville grounds, Oct. 11, with the pass play shown in the accompanying diagram. It wasn't needed as the accompanying play, but the play consistently has been a winner for the Nittany Lions. It has been called "Higgins' dream play" because it was Wally Triplett designed for College in 1942, and produced a touchdown the first time it was tried.

The play is run from the single wing, with an unbalanced line. The right halfback drops back, and the center passes directly to the left halfback, pulls out and makes the opposing end as he comes around.

The left halfback drops back, and the center passes directly to the right halfback, pulls out and makes the opposing end as he comes around.

The right halfback drops back, and the center passes directly to the right halfback, pulls out and makes the opposing end as he comes around.

except for the right tackle, who are closing in.

Agafar, Fordham, the receiver in the quarter goes out into the line in case both ends should be covered. The right halfback takes the right end as he comes in.

The passer usually finds the short pass.

On this timing had been off and his blocking ineffective, the play would have failed.

Ye Old Sport Scrivener has just been "digging" the Pioneer league statistics, just received from the Howe News bureau, Chicago, and has made a startling discovery. It is the "big why" of the Cowboys' title triumph—something that the attendance at every home game had not revealed to him, and probably you.

However, the ethical reasons that render this must wait for a few more days, but until then perhaps this will hold you: The Cowboys were used from the very beginning of their base hits of any club in the league.

The batting average that year's field published after a long, long wait through no fault of the Times-News, and its staff, was the left of this year reveal that.

That the Wraggers were efficient in the employment of their hits is shown in the fact that, although they were not last in batting they were only 141 hits to manufacture a run.

The Salt Lake City team needed 144 Idaho Falls, 147, Pocatello 141, Boise 143 and the Ogden Reds, who topped the circuit in batting.

AND THAT'S THAT FOR NOW, except: Bill Walls, with Jack Cunit looking on, shot a pheasant with a wing spread of 37 inches, which the Twin Falls men believe something of a record.

Idaho Falls and Boise Bantams Paired for Fight Card Prelim

Paul Hansen, the Idaho Falls bantamweight who scored a quick knockout on the last fight program here, is being brought back to Twin Falls to engage in one of the preliminary battles on the card that will show Dickie Weinholt, New York lightweight, against Buddy Washington, the Pocatello left-hook artist, in the main event at the high school gymnasium Nov. 16.

Matchmaker Bill Bell said that he would pair Hansen against Jimmy Luscomb, a 120-pounder who has been winning regularly on Boise fight cards.

They were opponents on the last program. Smagris has asked for the return bout, contending that he became suddenly ill in the other bout and was forced to quit.

Analyst Likes Graphic 'Cold War' Phrase

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This graphic expression "cold war"—to describe the present status of the conflict between Russia and the democracies as compared with the "hot war" of actual military combat—has fallen to take its place among history's colorful figures of speech.

However, like most phrases which represent a play on words, it could lead us into a faulty estimate of the situation if we didn't watch out. We might get the impression that things are cooler than they actually are. As a matter of fact, Soviet operations are far from "cold" in numerous areas.

Actual Gun Play

In Greece, for example, we see actual gun-play which the Athens government charges is being fostered by neighboring Soviet satellites, and this view is supported by a United Nations committee of investigation. Then there's the terrible Chinese civil war, which the Nanking nationalist government says is being aided by Moscow.

Moreover, besides these extreme cases where powder is being burned, strong-arm methods are being employed in various areas. This is notably evident within that zone of eastern Europe which Moscow is endeavoring to communicate and consolidate into a bloc entirely under Russian domination.

How Close?

Well, how close is our "cold war" to "hot war"?

Despite the fact that our "cold war" is warm in spots, the situation strikes me as adding up to the view expressed in this column long ago—that there's little likelihood of a major conflict for years to come. If the Marshall plan holds communism on its present line, the position will be really improved. If the red tide sweeps through to the English channel, then war is probable in due course.

Boyle Discovers Dewey to Be Sharp Witted, Less Reserved

By HAL BOYLE
ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP)—To get in to see Thomas E. Dewey, you must first pass the critical inspection of a big, red-haired, well-armed state policeman, who then unlocks the door leading to the governor's office suite.

That American political oddity that even in a democracy the major public servants have to be protected from the people they serve—has always interested me. I asked about the locked door.

"I wasn't Dewey's idea," an Albany newspaperman said. "It's been the custom here for some time. You know it's a state as big and complex as New York there are a lot of screwballs, and . . ."

And that explains the police guard and locked door.

Going through the outer office you pass a shiny parade of 100 miniature souvenir elephants collected by Executive Sec. Paul Lockwood. The collection contains one small donkey chained to an elephant.

The day I called Dewey was dressed in a brown suit and the guileless of wrinkles. About both his person and his office there was an air of careful neatness and precision.

The reporter accompanying me remarked jokingly that I had come to get the governor's announcement he would seek the Republican presidential nomination. Dewey gave me a precise smile.

"That makes you a member of a very large club," he laughed.

At 45 Dewey looks no older than the days when he first won national attention as the racket-fighting Manhattan district attorney. He is less reserved in manner now, however, and for half an hour chatted pleasantly—off the record—on political figures. He impressed me as a man of quick, keen wit rather than broad humor.

Keys to any man's intellectual life are the books he reads and the men he admires. Dewey said the book he remembers as influencing him most in his formative days was "The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens," which pictured the decay of city government under boss rule. He still prefers biography to other types of reading.

He said the political leaders of the past who had most guided his thinking.
